

GeoLogic Solutions Purchases iMotient Wireless Data Service

iMotient becomes CrossBridge Solutions

Herndon, Va. – September 14, 2006 – GeoLogic Solutions, the transportation industry’s leading provider of Multi-Mode communications and tracking systems, today announced it has completed the purchase of the iMotient Solutions platform from Motient Communications. Effective with the purchase, the name of the service has been changed to CrossBridge Solutions. CrossBridge is a Mobile Virtual Network Operator (MVNO) that provides third-party wireless data services. The CrossBridge service provides cellular data communications on the Cingular and Sprint networks and satellite communication services from Orbcomm to a variety of companies that utilize wireless data communications as part of their mobile or field service applications.

“We acquired the iMotient platform because we are dedicated to growing and enhancing our business,” stated John Lewis, president and CEO of GeoLogic Solutions. “Acquiring the communications platform that plays an integral part in the success of our business makes GeoLogic a stronger company and benefits all our customers. Additionally, we will continue to support existing iMotient customers and are excited about the opportunity of growing that business both within and outside of the transportation industry. We are confident the CrossBridge Solutions customers will come to know and trust our dedication to keeping this a trusted and successful wireless data service.”

“We have been tightly integrated with Motient for several years, so we are very familiar with the wireless data service and what it has to offer,” continued Lewis. “We firmly believe the wireless data communications market is growing rapidly, and the number of small and mid-size companies seeking a source for their wireless data services is expanding. We look forward to establishing CrossBridge Solutions as a leading provider of wireless data services and know it will play a key role in our continued success.”

About GeoLogic Solutions

Based in Herndon, Virginia, GeoLogic Solutions is a Platinum Equity company that provides the commercial trucking industry with wireless asset management solutions that reduce operational costs while increasing overall efficiency. MobileMax™, the leading mobile communications and tracking system to utilize both terrestrial and satellite-based networks, is installed in hundreds of fleets across the U.S. GeoLogic is also a Mobile Virtual Network Operator (MVNO) and provides third-party wireless data services through its CrossBridge Solutions platform. For more information go to www.goGeoLogic.com or www.CrossBridgeSolutions.com.

Media Contact:

Susan Fall
LaunchIt Public Relations
858-490-1050
susan@launchitpr.com

###